

People Who Make You Feel Good

Welcome to the mind of Tib. My goal is to become gainfully employed by someone who has been identified by another as one who makes them feel good. My theory is that everyone will always remember others by how they make them feel. This is the game. You have been given an opportunity to visit my website at www.bluegreenandred.com . Mull around and let me know what you think. My professional resume may also be found there. Then if the website makes you feel good about Tib, forward the original message* to others who make you feel good. Eventually my resume will make it into the hands of someone (that made someone feel good) who is in the position to reward my cleverness. My hope is that many will come to prosperity and good feelings by continuing with this simple networking model.

N.B.- If you don't have "the original message" or have inadvertently deleted it, you may quickly and easily request one by clicking on "Contact Us".
